PEMF Frequency Chart

Complete Guide to 1-30 Hz Therapeutic Frequencies

UPDATED November 28, 2025

Understanding PEMF Frequency Chart Applications

The PEMF frequency chart below provides a comprehensive guide to therapeutic electromagnetic frequencies ranging from 1 to 30 Hz. These frequencies correspond to natural brainwave patterns and the Earth's electromagnetic field, offering various potential health benefits when applied through Pulsed Electromagnetic Field therapy.

Research suggests that different PEMF frequencies may support specific wellness goals, from deep relaxation and improved sleep (Delta waves 1-4 Hz) to enhanced focus and cognitive function (Beta waves 13-30 Hz). The most studied frequency, 7.83 Hz (Schumann Resonance), represents the Earth's natural electromagnetic frequency and may help synchronize biological rhythms. PEMF is a genuinely fascinating technology, and as more science emerges, more professionals will seek to incorporate PEMF into their practices.

This PEMF frequency chart serves as a reference guide for understanding how specific frequencies within the 1-30 Hz range may influence different aspects of health and wellness. Each frequency range—Delta, Theta, Alpha, and Beta—corresponds to distinct brainwave states that may be beneficial for various therapeutic applications.
